Biography

Lillian Mulero is a New York Foundation on the Arts fellow in sculpture. She graduated from SUNY at Albany in 1983, and has exhibited widely across the US. She has shown at Feature gallery in NYC and Chicago, the New Langton Arts Center in San Francisco, the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis and the Tang Museum at Skidmore College as well as many universities and museums in New York state. Her one-person exhibition at the Jersey City Museum was a multimedia installation including sound, entitled Body and Soul of Lolita Lebron, a Puertorican revolutionary. Her work deals with issues of gender, faith and politics, and is never predictable.
